Sergeant Clifford Potter

WWII Photographer

by Trevor Potter

Clifford Potter was a press photographer with the Courier Mail newspaper when World War II broke out.

He joined the RAAF in Brisbane as a photographer in 1940 and recorded a number of events as they unfolded during his service life.

His photographs give some insight into typical wartime flying operations conducted at RAAF Bases throughout Australia.

After the war, he returned to his previous position with the Courier Mail.
